Daily Thoughts

Society, my dear, is like salt water. Good to swim in, but hard to swallow.

--Arthur Stringer

We are at the very beginning of time for the human race. It is not unreasonable that we grapple with problems. But there are tens of thousands of years in the future. Our responsibility is to do what we can, learn what we can, improve the solutions and pass them on.

--Richard Feynman

The future is an opaque mirror. Anyone who tries to look into it sees nothing but the dim outlines of an old and worried face.

--Jim Bishop

To Attend as many nights at your club as far as your time permits!!!!

In Training

A group of junior-level executives were participating in a management training program. The seminar leader pounded home his point about the need to make decisions and take action on those decisions.

"For instance," he said, "if you had five frogs on a log and three of them decided to jump, how many frogs would you have left on the log?"

The answer from the group was unanimous, "Two."

"Wrong," replied the speaker. "There would still be five, because there is a difference between deciding to jump and jumping."

“Everything you see I owe to spaghetti.”

-Sophia Loren

“Life is too short, and I’m Italian. I’d much rather eat pasta and drink wine than be a size 0.”

-Sophia Bush

“The trouble with eating Italian food is that five or six days later you’re hungry again.”

-George Miller

“All Italians got a refrigerator in the garage. That’s what we do.”

-Buddy Valastro

Buying Potato Salad

On my way to a picnic, I stopped at a fast-food place to order a quart of potato salad.

"We don't sell it by the quart," the clerk snapped.

"Okay, then give me two pints, please," I replied.

I'm proud to say I held my tongue when she asked, "Do you want it in one container?"
